"WOLVES AND THE LAMB" READY IN TWO WEEKS

Philosophian Play To Be Presented at Two Night
Performances

CAST SHOWS SKILL

The Philosophian Literary Society will present as its tenth annual dramatic production, "The Wolves and the Lamb," by Thackeray, in the Little Theater, on the nights of April 22 and 23. It is being rehearsed under the skillful supervision of Professor Farquhar, assisted by Lilly Cromwell, president of the society, and the staff of managers.

This play, by Thackeray, is a vitally interesting comedy, and in the material selected from the large numbers of applicants for parts in the play, has been found histrionic talent sufficient to put this production on with unsurpassed success.

The story is of Mr. Milliken, a prosperous merchant and a widower with two children, who is taken care of and governed by his mother-in-law, Lady Kicklebury. His servants take part whenever it is possible. His brother-in-law, Lord Kicklebury, has come to pay him a visit of indefinite length. He is a parasite, living on his relatives as much as possible so that it will not be necessary for him to work.

Mrs. Milliken, Mr. Milliken's mother, does her duty faithfully by coming over every once in a while to see that he is not ill-treated and incidentally to give orders concerning the administration of his household.

Miss Pryor is governess for the Milliken children. Howells, a servant in the household, falls in love with her and Mary, a maid in the household, is in love with Howells. Of

Y. W. C. A. HAS CLASS ON SOUTH AMERICA

Thirty-four Members Are Enrolled in Discussion Group.

The second meeting of the class discussion group which is studying under the leadership of Mrs. John Scott, was held in the recreation room of Patterson Hall Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

This class meets every week and has an enrollment of thirty-four members. It was organized by the Missionary Committee of the Young Woman's Christian Association to study the conditions and needs of the South American people. This field of missionary efforts was chosen because of the fact that part of the Y. W. C. A. budget of the University goes to the support of Miss Anna Mae Stokely, foreign secretary in South America. The book used by the class is "South American Neighbors," by Homer Stunts.

SENIOR ENGINEERS OFF FOR INSPECTION TRIP

Industrial Plants In Chicago Visited By Party During Week

A special Pullman left Monday night at 6:35 o'clock attached to Southern train No. 12, to carry senior students of the College of Engineering, to Chicago on the 21st annual inspection trip of senior engineering students. Twenty-nine seniors, including candidates for mining, mechanical and civil engineering degrees, made the trip. The party was in charge of F. Paul Anderson, dean of the College of Engineering, accompanied by Professors W. E. Freeman, D. V. Terrill, J. B. Dicker and J. Wolf.

The Palmer House will be the Chicago headquarters of the party during their seven-day stay in the northern metropolis. A regular daily routine will be followed every day of the visit. The members of the party will be the guests of honor at the annual dinner-meeting of the Chicago Alumni Club of the University of Kentucky at the Morrison Hotel Saturday night.

Mornings and afternoon will be devoted by the students to inspection work and evenings to getting acquainted with the city. The party will return to Lexington Saturday.

The seniors who made the trip are: Joseph H. Bailey, Bagdad; Park Boone, Lexington; Jerry Bromagem, Louisville; Davie C. Choate, Covington; John W. Coleman, Fayette county; E. E. Elsey, Fayette county; H. C. Foreman, H. Forman, Louisville; U. V. Garred, C. W. Gordon, Tom L. Gorman, Lexington; John T. Guthrie, Mt. Sterling; Wayne Haffler, LaGrange; C. M. Hargraves, Middlesboro; Neal W. Knight, Louisville; C. R. McClure, Wm. F. Marshall, Greendale; Joseph S. Misrach, Cincinnati, O.; Lewis W. Morgan, Soddy, Tenn.; John C. Moale, Lexington; K. R. Nisbet, Providence; R. S. Park, Madison county; N. T. Puckett, Albert C. Stephens, Burlington; Henry Clay Thompson, Jr., Fort Thomas; William Mason Wallace, Jr., Lexington; R. W. Waterfill; H. T. Weinshank and J. D. Wood, Elkton.

DEPARTMENTAL CLUBS

At the meeting of the Ti-Cor Psychology Club last Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Doctor Cornell's room of Neville Hall, Doctor Tigert showed and explained a collection of pictures taken in Europe during the recent war. This is a very rare collection of slides which Doctor Tigert obtained while with the Y. M. C. A.

Refreshments were served afterwards. The meeting next Wednesday will be given over to a student program.

FIRST PERFORMANCE HAS RECORD HOUSE

Strollers Surpass All Former Efforts in 1920 Play.

A record house saw a record show in "The Climbers," given Thursday evening by the Strollers. The strong cast culminating in the powerful interpretation of Dick Sterling's role by Emery Frazier, was a cast of stars. The financial success of the play was equaled by an artistic success, a step higher in that gradual line of remarkable Stroller productions.

Owing to the fact that the Kernel went to press early Friday morning, a complete review of the play will be necessarily deferred to next week's issue.

G. COLVIN ADDRESSES STUDENTS IN CHAPEL

Superintendent Urges Democracy of Education and Opportunity in Kentucky

"A strange question was asked in a strange book. A rich young man went one day to the only source of information and inspiration and asked: 'What shall I do?' There is no more important question now for any student to ask," said Honorable George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, at chapel Tuesday. The board of trustees of the University was present at this chapel exercise.

Mr. Colvin continued: "In my judgment, it does not matter much what you do, but how you do it and your attitude toward it. The answer to that question, 'What shall I do?' translated into the modern language, would mean go to school and get an education, then sell your education in terms of service to humanity. When you have gotten your education, you have the most priceless thing on earth, you have youth, youth with its dreams, enthusiasm, sell it all in terms of service to Kentucky. Unless you do this, Kentucky fails. Sell your faith in life. I challenge you to have faith in life. Believe that life is just; believe that life is fine."

In addition, he said: "I am compelled to believe in the education of all people, the democracy of opportunity; yet there must be an aristocracy of achievement and leadership. Democracy must mean democracy of opportunity for all children. There are thousands in the Kentucky mountains who would be here if they only had the chance."

In speaking of the womanhood of Kentucky, he said: "Never was such a responsibility imposed upon woman-kind as now. In the hands of the womanhood of America is held the destiny of this nation, for ninety-eight per cent of the teachers of America are women."

STUDENTS TO PRESENT FIRST DRAMA PROGRAM

Group of Plays To Be Given In Campus Theater Monday and Wednesday

Three plays, "Overtones," "Joint Owners in Spain," and "A Maker of Dreams," will be presented by University students in the Campus Playhouse two nights of next week, April 12 and 14. This program marks the beginning of the series to be given this year in the interest of community drama. The next program will be put on by the Wolf-Wile Company April 19 and 20.

Tickets for the season may be obtained from Mr. D. H. Peak, at the business office, telephone 448. Reserved seats without extra charge can be ordered at the same place.

The introduction of community drama into the University activities was made several weeks ago, when a meeting was held in the Little Theater of students and citizens of Lexington, and plans for a tentative program for this season were made. At that time the Campus Playhouse was so crowded that it was decided to arrange for two performances of all programs following. Community singing will be led by Professor Lampert.

The financial management of the plays given in the Campus Theater is under the direction of Mr. Whiting, of the English Department, and the class in Dramatic Production is in charge of costumes and draperies.

Following is the complete program of the performance for next week:

Overtones, a social satire in one act by Alice Gerstenberg, has in its cast the following students:

Harriet, a woman of culture, Virginia Throckmorton; Hetty, her real self, Lucille Moore; Margaret, a woman of culture, Carlisle Chenault; Maggie, her real self, Elizabeth Brown; Maid, Elizabeth Davidson.

The cast of "Joint Owners in Spain," a character drama, is:

Mrs. Blair, Mary Frank Duguid; Miss Dyer, Mary Elizabeth James; Mrs. Fullerton, Inmate of Old Ladies' Home, Virginia Quisenberry; Miss Mitchell, the matron, Lora Lee Robertson.

Margaret Smith will take the part of Pierrette, a dancer; and Fred Augsburg and Preston Cherry will appear as a showman and a maker of dreams, respectively, in a one-act fantasy, "A Maker of Dreams," by Oliphant Down.

CADET HOP SATURDAY.

The fourth Cadet Hop of this year will be given Saturday afternoon in the University Armory from 2:30 to 5:30 o'clock. The University Jazz Band will furnish the music for the hop.

PRESIDENT DISCUSSES NEEDS OF UNIVERSITY

"Increase in Students' Expenses Menaces Democracy," He Declares in Trustees' Meeting

ASKS BOARD FOR HELP

President McVey read his quarterly report at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky in the President's office yesterday afternoon. The report summarizes the present situation at the University on increased cost of operation, necessity for an increase in salaries, recent legislation affecting the University, housing of students, housing facilities for faculty members, sites for fraternity buildings, necessity for additional buildings and equipment, the Memorial Building situation, the University library, present lack of organization among alumni of the institution, the Student Loan Fund, and the development of special departments.

"The increased cost of living for students is rapidly becoming a menace to democracy," said Dr. McVey, "and the increased cost of higher education is making it more and more difficult for Kentucky boys and young women to procure a good education, thereby limiting the possibilities of their leadership. The day is past when a man can reach leadership except through training. The majority of those of real native ability come from homes where the income is small."

The membership of the new Agricultural Extension Committee appointed by Governor Morrow was announced at the meeting, as follows: W. C. Hanna, Commissioner of Agriculture, Frankfort; Frank McKee, Ver-

MUSICAL PROGRAM IS EASTER "Y." SERVICE

Instrumental and Vocal Selections.
Heard by Members.

The Easter services of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. were held in the recreation room of Patterson Hall Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Roberta Thornton led the meeting.

The recreation room was made attractive with Easter lilies and jonquils which were arranged in vases and placed in various parts of the room.

There was no speaker, but the following musical program was given.

Solo, "I Come to Thee," Alvin Lis-anby.

Solo, "Oh Jesus, Thou Art Standing," Miriam Kinchloe.

Solo, "The Holy City," John Curry.

Violin Solo, Professor Carl Lampert.

"Crown Him King of Kings," Choir.

Refreshments of ice cream and cakes were served during the social hour which followed.

With two women to boss, Milliken, who has no will of his own when ladies are giving orders, and the triangle love affair—What happens?

Well, that will be seen on the night of April 22 at the Little Theatre when "The Wolves and the Lamb" will be presented by the Philosophian Literary Society. The members of the cast are working hard each day and night to make the production a success and are making much progress.

The unusual talent displayed by those composing the cast has received favorable criticism and everyone is waiting with intense interest for the first performance to be given.

The cast of characters as have finally been decided after a careful process of competition and selection are as follows:

Mr. Milliken, E. Kraft; Mrs. Milliken, F. Bethel; Miss Pryor, Mary Elizabeth James; Lady Kicklebury, Ruth Kelley; Lord Kicklebury, Margaret Harbison; Howells, butler, Jennie Simmons; Bulkley, butler, Edna Snapp; Capt. "THE PLAY'S THE THING."

Next Monday night in the Campus Playhouse, a group of University students will appear before an audience composed of students, faculty members, and citizens of Lexington, in the first program given in the interests of community drama.

It is impossible now to estimate the value of this great movement which had its auspicious beginning in the formal opening of the Campus Playhouse on March 25. Undoubtedly its development will prove an influence far-reaching in its consequences; a tremendous factor in bringing about that unity of sentiment and interests which make for the ideal community.

For truly there is no instinct more important in the make-up of man than the play instinct. It is only those who have learned to play together who are fully able to face and solve the graver problems of life together. And this instinct reaches its highest gratification in the drama, whether the individual witnesses, or better still, takes part in the production of plays.

In spite of the seeming mania for the screen and for the cheaper class of drama, which characterizes the pleasure-seeking crowds of today, there is unmistakable evidence of a desire for some form of entertainment which will arouse more than a light laugh and more than a passing thrill of excitement.

This has been foreseen by those who have arranged the tentative program for this initial season of dramatics in the Campus Playhouse. The productions chosen were most happily selected for their artistic ability to please the intellect as well as the emotions.

No institution can stand alone or be self-centered in its activities, in this day when it is possible for nation to reach out and grasp hands with nation. The development of that mighty force known as community spirit, which received a powerful impetus in those days of nation-wide co-operation, during the World War, will not pause in its growth until citizens from all departments of the life of the city are ready to unite for the best interests of the community. And it is only through leadership in the development of this force that the University may hold its place of dignity as the State's center of higher learning.

Therefore the Kernel desires to congratulate, and in the name of the student body, to thank those faculty members and students who have expended time and energy to make possible this new activity in the University, an activity which it believes will break down many intangible barriers which have always existed and prevented true fellowship between student and student, student and citizen, student and business man.

McCarty: "Jim, what brand do you prefer?"

Truett: "Kathleen."

Mademoiselle on Dit says: "Isn't it funny that fast colors aren't the ones that run?"

To which the Knight of the Lexington aptly retorts, "Well, fast people aren't the ones that run either, are they?"

Gregory (speaking of Blue Ridge): "The other girls and myself took a trip."

Alberta: "Who was it said the unexpected always happens?"

Server: "I don't know. Wasn't it somebody connected with the weather bureau?"

Prof.: "What happened to Babylon?"

Griffin: "It fell."

Prof.: "What happened to Tyre?"

Griffin: "It was punctured."

Time to Go.

He had held forth for so long on the subject of his adventures that the entire smoking-room was distinctly bored. Finally he reached India.

"It was there that I first saw a man-eating tiger," he announced, boastfully.

"Pooh! that's nothing," said a mild-looking little man, edging towards the door. "I once saw a man eating rabbit."

And he sauntered gracefully out.—London Blighly.

The Coming Upper Class.

"I can't play with you common children. My father is a workingman!"—Sondags Nisse (Stockholm).

Quite Simple.

We hear that a Leicestershire hen has adopted a litter of pigs. A possible explanation of this is the natural intimacy between ham and eggs.—London Blighly.

Done.

I've never reached the wealthy class, My days I've spent in toil; No hall of fame will know my name, But I've been "done in oil."—W. Kee Maxwell, Akron Times.

Fixing Needed.

"John, I hear you are ingenious in a mechanical way. Can't you fix Tommy's horn?"

"What's the matter with it?"
"Nothing. I want you to fix it so it won't blow."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Aren't They Reasonable?

Girl: "Have you any hair nets?"
Shopkeeper: "Yes."
Girl: "Invisible?"
Shopkeeper: "Yes."
Girl: "Let me see them."

Elizabeth Marshall: "I don't intend to be married until after I'm thirty."
Henrietta Bedford: "And I don't intend to be thirty until after I'm married."

Why They Went Home for Easter.

"Wal, stranger," spat out Frizzy
As he took another chaw,
"I haint up yere for larning
But I know a lot of law
When it's dealing of the ladies
With mechanics in my jaw.
But these here verbal boquets
Are waning fast away
When Easter calls for cor—
(Well, call them what you may)
And my sweet cookie wants one
So there's he hall to pay
When I go home for Easter
Where you greet the girls with
'hey'."

—TERRIBLE.

VERILY, VERILY.

(Showing how Spring hath its disadvantages as well as its advantages.)

Lo, the Spring cometh and confusion reigneth in the heart of the student. His brain refuseth to function properly, and his fancy turneth to thoughts of first one thing and then two. Even though the professor loveth a cheerful worker, and "A" cometh to him who laboreth earnestly and diligently therefor, the Young Man banisheth thoughts of wisdom from his mind, and turneth to folly for solace.

Verily, the age-old disease of Spring taketh a foul hold on his spirit, and Work seeketh more fertile soils. Pep loveth the Stude no more, and bestoweth its affections elsewhere. Yea, Optimism, with its wealth of everything good, hasteneth toward the tents of the Care-Not Tribes and dwelleth securely therein. Pessimism knocketh at the door of every man and readily findeth shelter. Drowsiness putteth weights on the eyelids, and Ambition becometh dim, even as the sun when it droppeth behind the haze of western mountains. Melancholy—the Divine, the Matchless Inspirer—changeth into Gloom, as cold, as clammy, as unyielding as the atmosphere of a tomb.

Behold, Spring cometh with its birds and its sunshine, but the unwelcome Fever of it tralleth along as well. Verily, every sweet hath its hour, and every good its evil. Selah!—SOLOMON II.

Why do they call it the prom?

Mere process of elliptical erosion. Originally the gathering was so promiscuous, don't you know.

Adele: "How do you like my new dress?"

Bill: "Ripping."

Adele: "Heavens! Call a taxi."

Caller: "May I see Miss Lucy Smith?"

Maid (Patt. Hall): "Well, sir, she isn't dressed yet, but I'll ask her."

AESTHETIC DANCING IN LITTLE THEATER

The department of gymnasium of the University will present a program of aesthetic dancing April 24 and 25 in the Campus Theater. A second performance was arranged by Miss Sarah Blanding, who is directing the dancing, because of the limited seating capacity of the Little Theater.

Besides the dancing, there will be several musical numbers on the program, and two of the University professors will present a dialogue. Those who will take part in the dances are: Kathleen Rennick, Mildred Porter, Virginia Downing and Margaret Parrish.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA HAS FIVE PLEDGES

Students Who Have Represented University in Oratory Honored.

"The measure of a university lies in the achievement of alumni and undergraduates of the institution. "We do not know of the royal road to success, but we are sure of one thing, it does not run parallel with the line of least resistance," said Julius Wolf, active member of the Tau Kappa Alpha fraternity, at the annual pledge day exercises in chapel Friday, in which the following men were pledged: Clifford E. Smith, Nelson B. Conkwright, John McKenzie, Goebel Porter and Herbert Haley. Ed. Hardin, active member, presided.

Continuing, Mr. Wolf said: "Popular applause is small recompense indeed for the labor and the blows that we receive in accomplishing. "Someone must strive to represent Kentucky in oratory, and to carry the standard of Kentucky on the rostrum."

Jasper McBrayer, of Lawrenceburg, was the next speaker. After expressing his appreciation of the revival of interest in oratory at the University of Kentucky, he said in part: "We have heard it said that the golden age of eloquence has gone. As long as men have souls, and the heart responds to sentiments, oratory will never die. To calm, to persuade, to warn, to move to action, is the aim of eloquence. The charm of the spoken word will remain forever. As long as misery and want are existent, the orator will be demanded to speak for the people." In closing, he said: "Let use resolve, that here in the shadow of the monument erected to one of the world's greatest orators, will be developed the spoken word, that the future shall be greater than the past, and to that end that the history of Kentucky, rich with legend and gold and romance, shall not die."

The Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary oratorical fraternity, was organized at the University of Kentucky in 1913. Membership is open only to those who have represented Kentucky in oratory, and are a source of pride to the University. Its aim is to uphold the dignity of the University on the platform, to do honor to those who have striven to uphold Kentucky on the rostrum. The active members are: Milton Revill, L. F. Bisheoff, Julius Wolf, Jasper McBrayer, E. Hardin and Professor Noe.

PUBLIC TO HEAR NOTED CHEMIST

Society to Have Open Meeting Friday Night.

The 52nd meeting of the Lexington Section of the American Chemical Society will be held in the Physics Lecture Room in the Physics Building, University of Kentucky, on Friday, April 9th, at 8:00 p. m.

An illustrated address on Hellum; its chemical and physical properties and commercial development for army and navy use in dirigibles, will be given by Dr. R. B. Moore, chief chemist of the United States Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C. The speaker will be introduced by Dr. McVey.

Those who have heard about some of our country's notable scientific contributions to the cause during the late war, will be interested to come and hear this one discussed by Dr. Moore, who was instrumental in its development.

The public is cordially invited to hear this interesting address.

WILDCATS READY TO MEET MICHIGAN TEAM

Opening Game of Baseball Season To Be Played Here Saturday

Coach Carl Lundgren will chaperone his famous squad of baseball players down to Lexington Saturday to meet Coach Gill's battling band of Wildcats on Stoll Field for the opening game of the season. Twice before has the Kernel announced the date and place of the opening game of the Kentucky schedule, but each time the prediction has proved incorrect because of weather conditions or other unavoidable reasons. But the Kentucky-Michigan game is practically a surety, and Kentucky fans are promised a great opening game Saturday.

Notwithstanding the fact that Michigan has always held the upper hand on Kentucky yet the Wildcats gave Sisler and his outfit of Michiganders such a close run in the last Kentucky-Michigan game, which was played in 1915, that the Sisler-less band realizes that it has a hard row ahead for Saturday. Dopesters tell us that the renowned Sisler, now with the St. Louis Browns, has a double in the person of Parks, present hurler for the Michiganders, who was one of the conspicuous figures in the Conference games last season when Michigan walked away with the Conference championship.

The game Saturday will be started promptly at 2:30 o'clock, which will permit those terpsichorean artists so disposed to attend the last hour of the Cadet Hop which will be in full swing in the Armory at the end of the game.

Tom Grubbs, a varsity hurler of recent years, will probably be started in the box for the Wildcats, with the probability of the Coach substituting Slomer, Cooper or Megular during the last half of the game. Receiving the ball for Kentucky will be Heber, the new catcher who is destined to be as popular on the baseball diamond as he has been on the football field. The infield will be picked from the following five men: Kelley, Brown, Propps, Zerfoss, and Burnham. Visitors at recent practices have found Kelley constantly on the first sack, Brown at short stop, Burnham at third, and Propps or Zerfoss at second base. Just what combination will start the game Saturday is not known. Mizrach, Jones, Sauer and Muth will form the garden trio.

INTER-CLASS TRACK EVENTS POSTPONED

Schedule To Be Finished Next Week.

The inter-class track meet that was scheduled to have been held last week was begun, but not finished. The events scheduled for the first two days were played off, but the weather did not permit the completion of the meet the third day. The three unfinished events will be held some afternoon next week, or as soon as the weather permits. When all the events have been completed the Kernel will publish all the dope on the meet, together with the records of the individuals and of the gym. class teams.

ANNUAL TOURNAMENT OF HIGH SCHOOLS HERE

Athletes To Resume Custom Discontinued During War

On May eighth the Seventh Annual High School Tournament will be held at the University of Kentucky. This will be the first meeting of high school athletes since the annual tournament scheme was abandoned just after the 1917 meet, because of the war. The tournaments had become a regular affair on Stoll Field, and the managing and governing of them had been perfected so that a great many of the high schools of the State were enjoying the hospitality of the University each year.

S. A. Boles and George Buchheit will be in charge of the tournament, and will have personal direction of each event of the track meet. The teams representing the various high schools which will be represented in the meet will be assisted in every way possible while staying in Lexington. The regulations governing this meet will be practically the same as have been observed in previous meets.

During the day of May eighth fourteen events will be "staged," which will include all the regular track events except the hammer throw. A medal will be given to each of the winners of the first, second and third places in each event. A medal will also be given to the individual athlete making the highest number of points during the meet, and a silver championship cup will be awarded to the team making the most points during the meet.

The last inter-scholastic meet was held in 1917, in which the Louisville High School team was victorious, carrying off the championship cup, and gaining first place in most of the events. At this meet six high school records were set. They were:

Running High Jump, Jimmie Wilhelm, Paducah, five feet, six inches.
 Half-mile, Walton, Louisville, two minutes, 93-5 seconds.
 Two hundred and twenty-yard dash, Grabfelder, Louisville, 23 1-5 seconds.
 Running Broad Jump, Locke, Louisville, 19 feet, 6 inches.
 Shot Put, Quast, Louisville, 40 feet, 9 1/4 inches.
 Discus, Hawkins, Anderson county, 96 feet.
 This record shows the excellent track material represented at the meet, and the encouragement of such athletic contests is a worthy endeavor. Anyone desiring further information on this subject should see Mr. Boles or Mr. Buchheit.

WRESTLING MATCHES AT CITY Y. M. C. A.

Nine University Wrestlers Will Participate.

A series of short wrestling matches, in which nine University men and one Lexington wrestler will participate, will be given next Tuesday night at the Lexington Y. M. C. A., under the direction of Mr. King, Physical Director, and Mr. Cruise, Y. M. C. A. secretary. A small admission fee will be charged to purchase medals for a tournament to be held in the near future.

The work of three University boys, Frank Bunch, H. Enlow, and "Babe" Winters, will be watched with especial interest. Enlow ranks as one of the best wrestlers from West Point. Bunch is a popular and experienced Lexington wrestler, and Winters has a splendid record from regimental and other matches.

The full list of wrestlers is as follows: 125 and under, W. A. Anderson and R. E. Queen; 135 and under, W. S. Anderson and R. L. Ringo; 145 and under, "Babe" Winters and Frank Bunch; 170, H. Enlow and Harold McGregor; 170, G. Benson and G. Aiken.

1920 TRACK SCHEDULE.

University of Kentucky.
 April 17—Vanderbilt University, at Lexington.
 April 24—Miami University, at Lexington.
 May 1—University of Cincinnati, at Cincinnati.
 May 8—Interscholastic (High Schools), at Lexington.
 May 14 and 15—S. I. A. A., at Atlanta, Georgia.
 May 22—State Meet, at Lexington.

TEAM MEETS VANDY AND CENTRE SQUADS

Track Team Entertains at Home; Baseball Squad Goes to Danville.

Saturday, April 17, will be a busy day for Kentucky athletes. The baseball squad goes to Danville to play the Centre College Colonels, and the track squad remains at home to take on Vandy's tracksters in the first meet of the season. Track training has been very slow during the last week because of bad weather, but the running Wildcats are having ample opportunity these days to put on the finishing touches before they trot out on Stoll Field to give old Vandy the thrashing of her life. Success for the Wildcats is predicted in the contest at Danville and in the meet here.

In Selecting a University

For a college education, there are five things to be taken into consideration:

1. The men at the head of the Institution.
2. The scholastic standing and ability of the Teaching Staff.
3. The location and advantages of environment.
4. Equipment, buildings, laboratories and libraries.
5. Cost.

In all these respects the University of Kentucky commends itself to those seeking a higher institution in which to carry on their education.

All Departments, including Liberal Arts, Sciences, Agriculture, Law, Education, Mining, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

The Government needs trained men and women; college training will bring the result.

KIT CARSON TELLS OF WYOMING EXPERIENCES

Letter of Interest To Those Wanting Land Grants

Daniel C. Carson, of Richmond, a former student of the University, who went to Wyoming to take up a Government claim in one of the irrigation projects opened there March 5, has written a most interesting and entertaining letter back to one of his friends in the University telling of his experiences.

Because of the interest shown by students of the University in this Government land proposition for ex-service men the letter in full is printed below:

306 Spruce Street,
Rock Springs, Wyoming.

Dear _____:

Well boy, I suppose you think that talk is cheap with some people, but you desired information about these lands in this section. If information of lands in general was what you wanted, I am qualified to speak, but for anything definite you must wait until I get located myself. Probably you know by now that our dope on the Government irrigated land raffle was just about wrong, conservatively speaking. Maybe you would be interested in hearing about the recent drawings.

I arrived in the little village of Torrington around 9 p. m., March 4. The applications and water rental deposit had to be in the land office by 9 a. m., March 5. Torrington was overrun with soldiers—haven't seen as many in one place since whiskey was voted out of the army. There were 5,000 acres divided up into 80 tracts and only 3,251 ex-service men filing, so you can see the chance that even a lucky man was up against. Along with your application there was a cash deposit of $5.10 per acre for each acre under water, this money to be returned if the applicant was unlucky. Incidentally mine hasn't been returned yet. Everybody's number and name was put in a keg and at 2 o'clock they started to draw them. The first man out of the keg won. Oh, it was an exciting afternoon, notwithstanding the fact that a blizzard was raging and the supply of "chow" was about exhausted.

The other 5,000 acres was opened in the Shoshone region on March 12, and was not as desirable land, consequently, the competition was lighter but I may as well state that I don't own any land in that locality either. There is still a large quantity of grazing land left, however, to be homesteaded in tracts up to 640 acres, and this scheme appeals to me more and seems almost as good as the Government irrigated land, only there are two kinds of this dry land and the worst isn't worth having, so my business for the past ten days has been looking around for the best and I believe this best grazing land lies in Fremont County around a little space called Pinedale. In addition to taking up a section (640 acres), you may at very reasonable terms buy up to 100 acres with water on it from the State. (Read the "Carey Act" if you can get a book on irrigation laws), also at a low figure ($2.50 per acre), it is possible to get 100 more acres of timber land. The total makes a nice ranch if it can be located in one boundary. Understand, the elevation is around 7,000 feet and therefore cattle-raising is the only real thing to consider. It is a beautiful country in the summer time; woods full of game from elk to skunks and the lakes and creeks abounding with fish. Hay grows wild and the whole Forest Reserve is available for range. Everybody owns a car and the "Shimmy" has been barred.

So much for the assets. I'm not in the real estate business this week, so I will try to state the drawbacks with equal frankness. To begin with, summer doesn't constitute much over a third of the year and they tell me that in the winter a Polar bear needs snow shoes and ear muffs. That means seven months feeding. Again, the nearest railroad is about 110 miles, so you see that it would be almost impossible to get work on the "Section" through the dull season at home.

All good land along the railroad is about gone. Now, of course, there's plenty open land closer in and at a lower elevation, but it is limited pretty well to sheep herding now and until some one finds a market for dry land and Prairie Dog pelts, it's liable to remain so.

It's a long time before June and in that time I plan to locate and then will be able to give you some more definite dope. This country is undeveloped to a great extent and there is plenty going on. Outside of oil and cattle the most money would be in the restaurant business if all the Chinks would die. At present I'm able to keep a meal ticket on my person by working for the highway department here, that is, I'm waiting for the snow to get off of my ranch.

CARSON.

TIGERT PRESIDENT OF ADVERTISING CLUB.

Dr. John J. Tigert, head of the Department of Psychology, was recently elected president of the Blue Grass Advertising Club, which was recently organized by representatives of advertising interests of Lexington, Frankfort, Richmond and many surrounding towns of the Blue Grass section of Kentucky.

The club will insist upon the observance of its motto in all advertising, the motto being, "Truth." Delegates from the club are to be sent to the meeting of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world in Indianapolis in June, the local organization having applied for a charter as a member of the international association.

This club has been organized as a result of the activities of Doctor Tigert, who several months ago added to the curriculum of the University a course in the study of "The Psychology of Advertising," which immediately aroused interest among citizens of the Blue Grass.

CONCERNING THRILLS

(With Apologies to the Press Association)

Divers and sundry hearts in the little village of Possum Trot received a never-to-be-forgotten thrill last evening about 6 o'clock. Never again will the before-mentioned hearts beat so quickly and caper about so rambunctiously as they did at that time.

The cause of all the excitement was a headline on the front page of the local paper to this effect: "POSSUM TROT BOY BREAKS ALL RECORDS." Such a statement coming so unexpectedly was sufficient to unbalance the soberest intellect, and make malleable the most adamant heart in Possum Trot. It did all that, and more.

Turn thine eyes to one home in particular, where you will have the privilege of seeing what a headline can do—and seldom does. Father, Mother and the children are seated around the center table, and Father is reading from the "Possum Trot News Weekly." The item which engages the undivided attention of all is as follows:

"Josephus Varney Steeples, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Steeples, of this city, is making an enviable record at the University of Kentucky, where he has been attending school for the last two years, etc."

Turning to Mother, and taking an unusually long draw at his old cob pipe, Father says: "Martha, didn't I tell you that boy would make his mark? They ain't a smarter boy in Kaintucky than our Joe. His education has cost us a heap of money, but he's showin' them College people what kind of stuff he's made of. You watch him make 'em set up and take notice."

"Yes," replies Mother. "Joe always hankered after larnin', and I'm mighty glad we have give him a chance to get it. I'd like to see him now, wouldn't you, John—" And she brushes a tear away. Mothers are prone to that sort of thing, you know. "Gee, I bet Joe'd feel big if he could see his name in the paper," says Joe's nine-year-old brother, Jim.

"And my, won't Ethel Barton be jealous of me!" chimes in Maude, Joe's pretty sister, who is a freshman in high school. "Her brother was sent home from the University because he flunked in his studies."

So goes the conversation as Father reads the record of Josephus Varney Steeples' achievements at the University.

Results: Two days later the said

Josephus receives a letter, postmarked at Possum Trot, and containing, along with a check for a goodly amount, some words of commendation, encouragement, et cetera, the gist of which is, "Go to it, my boy; I'm for you!"

All of which goes to show that the Press Association is a good thing, and is not

"—a flower born to blush unseen, And waste its sweetness on the desert air."
